Fire at Chaffee

Firemen from the Illmo Fire Department look on as other firefighters continue to subdue flames in the vacant Lucky 13 Lanes bowling alley in Chaffee. The fire, which started from an explosion at about 4:20 a.m., had been mostly beaten back by rain and the combined efforts of the Chaffee, Oran and Illmo fire departments when this picture was taken. The bowling alley was destroyed while five surrounding buildings received smoke or water damage.

Prosecutor to drop California charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — District Atty. Joseph Busch of Los Angeles County agreed today to seek dismissal of California burglary and conspiracy charges that had been placed in the Ellsberg case against John D. Ehrlichman, David R. Young and G. Gordon Liddy.

The perjury charge leveled against Ehrlichman would remain.

The announcement was made jointly by Busch and special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Ehrlichman and Liddy were indicted by a federal grand jury last week on federal conspiracy charges in the case. Young was not indicted by the federal grand jury in Washington.

Busch agreed to drop the state charges as a result of the federal indictments.

"Among the reasons given for seeking to dismiss are that many of these issues involve matters of national interest and therefore would best be decided in the federal court system," the announcement said.

"The two indictments would be exposing defendants to trial in two different jurisdictions and, in fairness to those defendants charged in both jurisdictions and in the interests of justice, they should be tried in one jurisdiction," it said.

Ehrlichman, former chief domestic counselor to President Nixon, pleaded innocent Saturday to one count of conspiracy to violate the rights of Dr. Lewis Fielding, Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, one count of lying to the FBI and three counts of lying to the grand jury.

Charles W. Colson, a former White House aide, also pleaded innocent Saturday to a conspiracy count in connection with the Ellsberg case.

Four other defendants in the case, including Liddy, are to be arraigned Thursday before U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell.

Ehrlichman, Young and Liddy pleaded innocent to the California charges last September and their trial had been scheduled by Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer for April 15.

Both the federal and state cases involve the September 1971 break-in of Fielding's Beverly Hills office by burglars seeking Ellsberg's files.

"The perjury charge as to John Ehrlichman in Los Angeles County will remain," the announcement said. "It involves protection solely of a state interest."

Busch and Assistant Dist. Atty. Stephen Trott met with Jaworski for an hour and afterward announced that Busch "has agreed to seek dismissal of the charges of conspiracy and burglary as to David R. Young, John Ehrlichman and G. Gordon Liddy."

It was the second time the federal case had taken precedence over the charges in California.

Egil Krogh Jr., former assistant to Ehrlichman, had been indicted along with the others in Los Angeles. But he pleaded guilty to one federal count of violating Fielding's civil rights and was sentenced to serve six months of a 2 to 6 year term. He began serving the sentence at Allenwood, Pa., prison farm on Feb. 4.

Dismissal of the case in California will make moot a demand by Judge Ringer that President Nixon come to California to testify as a "necessary and material witness."

A judge in the District of Columbia superior court, Harold H. Greene, was to hear arguments Friday on whether to issue a subpoena to enforce Ringer's order that Nixon appear.

Natural gas curtailments will end, Ark-Mo says

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. — The natural gas curtailments imposed earlier this winter on the area's large industrial users will be lifted, "effective immediately," Frank G. Smith, president of Arkansas-Missouri Power Company, said today.

Smith said the end of industrial curtailments applies to the area in Northeast Arkansas and Southeast Missouri served by Ark-Mo and its Missouri subsidiary, Associated Natural Gas Co.

Ark-Mo imposed the curtailments after its major pipeline suppliers said they would drastically cut the company's supply of natural gas below Ark-Mo's contract entitlements.

In addition to lifting the industrial curtailments, Smith said, "We are reinstating 50 per cent of all power plant entitlements, except our own Jim Hill plant at Campbell, Mo. It will continue to operate on fuel oil."

Six area municipal power plants were taken off natural gas last September.

Smith said Ark-Mo is able to ease its curtailment policy due to a combination of "a very mild winter, conservation by consumers and pipeline curtailments that were less than we had expected."

He cautioned that the company's actions "should not be construed to mean that there is no shortage of energy."

"That," he said, "would be a poorly founded conclusion.

"We still face the possibility of sever weather in March and April," he said, "and additional cold- day curtailments during these months are a very real possibility.

"And, both of our pipeline suppliers have indicated that they will probably increase our natural gas curtailments next year. It also is difficult to imagine that next year's heating requirements will be as low as this year.

"What we're saying," Smith said, "is that we may be out of this woods this heating season, but we haven't completed the journey by any means.

"In fact, power plant customers should expect to be curtailed again by Sept. 1. And large industrial customers may well have to be curtailed again this next heating season. We will issue a statement on that sometime in August.

Smith detailed the factors that allowed Ark-Mo to ease its curtailments to area industries and power plants.

"Our pipeline suppliers had indicated that our supply of natural gas would be reduced about three million cubic feet below what we had contracts for.

"But, their most recent projections indicate that we will be cut only about 2.6 billion cubic feet. So, we can pass that additional gas on to our customers.

"As for winter weather, it was about 14 per cent warmer than last year, according to our engineers, meaning it took about 14 per cent less natural gas for heating needs.

"Then the amount of gas used for commercial and residential heating was reduced to a remarkable degree due to customers lowering thermostat settings.

"While it's not possible to be 100 per cent accurate at this early date, indications are that conservation measures have reduced heating requirements by 10 per cent."

The utility president added that "I think the public deserves a vote of thanks for taking the energy shortage seriously. They certainly have our thanks, and we want them to know it."

Explosion, fire destroy Chaffee bowling alley

CHAFFEE — Firemen from Chaffee, Scott City and Oran were called early today to help battle a blaze which resulted in approximately $200,000 in damages to several buildings in downtown Chaffee.

Authorities said the fire was preceded by an explosion at about 4 a.m. in Lucky 13 Bowling Alley, located on Yoakum St. The building is owned by Robert Capshaw and has been vacant for the past two years.

The fire spread to apartments located above Ace Package Liquor Store at 106 East Yoakum. Twelve persons were evacuated from the apartments as a precautionary measure, but no injuries were reported. Chaffee Plumbing and Heating Co., 116 S. Main St., owned by Marvin Graham, was also damaged by the fire.

Jo-Ann's Dress Shop, 112 S. Main St., Heathers Beauty Shop, 108 S. Main St., and the Elks Lodge No. 1810 on E. Yoakum St., received smoke damage.

Authorities said the force of the explosion blew glass through the Bank of Chaffee drive-in lot and as far as Thorngate Pants factory at 234 N. Main St. Bricks were blown out of the back of the

Man streaks at Pizza Inn

Streaking came to Sikeston Friday when a lone male streaker reportedly dashed nude around the parking lot of Pizza Inn, 1905 E. Malone Avenue.

Jim Lloyd, manager of the restuarant, said he was working and did not see the man. He said he was told of the incident by some people who came in after it happened. He said he didn't know what time the streaking occurred.

Police Chief Leon Culp said he was aware of the incident, but that "he wasn't going to lose any sleep over it." No report was made to police, Culp said.

Father returns escapee

NEW MADRID— A 16- year- old New Madrid boy who escaped Thursday night from the New Madrid County jail is back in custody, according to Deputy Sheriff Flip Dees, who said the boy was returned to officers Saturday by his father.

The youth had escaped from jail by tearing out a light fixture in the ceiling of his cell. He then managed to get to the roof of the jail by crawling through a ventilator.

He was being held in connection with a Feb. 28 break- in at Davis Pharmacy, 415 Mott St.

Rivers rise as heavy rains fall in Bootheel

Heavy rains which hit sections of central and southern Missouri Sunday also dumped rain on Southeast Missouri, although not as much as in other parts of the state.

In Sikeston 1.54 inches of rainfall were recorded for Saturday and Sunday, most of that-- 1.32 inches-- occured from 7 a.m. Sunday to 7 a.m. today.

The rain was part of a line of thunderstorms which extended into Texas and resulted in the deaths of two women whose car was swept off a bridge over the rampaging Little Gravois Creek near Gravois Mills in Morgan County.

Other areas of Southeast Missouri recorded less rainfall than Sikeston. Precipitation in Charleston measured .12 inches Saturday and 1.17 inches Sunday for a weekend total of 1.29 inches.

In New Madrid, only .87 inch of rain fell over the two- day period.

East Prairie had 1.09 inches of rain while Portageville recorded .95 inches. Sunday Dexter experienced 1.23 inches of precipitation.

Across the state the most rainfall apparently occurred at Springfield where 1.89 inches were recorded in the 24 hours ending at 7 a.m. today.

Although no roads in the Sikeston area were reported flooded today, several secondary roads in the Springfield area were closed and Missouri 23, south of Concordia was flooded during the night.

River stages on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers began to rise again following the rainfall. At New Madrid the river stage was recorded at 28.5 today and is expected to rise to a crest of 31.5 feet Saturday. Flood stage at New Madrid is 34 feet.

At Cairo the river is expected to go above the 40- foot flood stage on Wednesday to 40.6 feet. It will continue to rise to a crest of 42 feet on Saturday.

At Caruthersville, where the flood stage is 32 feet, the river was recorded at 27.2 feet. The river will rise to 29.9 feet on Thursday, but no crest is currently in the forecast.

At Cape Girardeau, where flood stage is 32 feet, the forecast calls for the river to rise from 28.4 feet recorded today to a crest of 31.0 feet Friday.

All other points along the river are forecasting increases in the river stage for the next three days.

The weather forecast calls for occassional showers or thundershowers this afternoon with showers ending early tonight. Probabilities of rain this afternoon are 80 per cent and tonight, 30 per cent. Little if any precipitation is expected Wednesday through Friday. Mild temperatures are forecast for the period.

One of Congress' top experts on federal aid to education has raised disturbing questions about the way the program is run. Rep. Edith Green (D.-Ore.), a former school teacher who has made education a key concern during her long career on Capitol Hill, sounded off in an article for the New York Times: "Programs never seem to phase out, even after the problem has been solved or after the program has shown very disappointing results. It is almost impossible to reverse an initiative. It is almost impossible to change formulas because the decision of each congressman is too often based on the very pragmatic question: 'Will my congressional district (or state) gain or lose?' Second, federal education programs suffer from a terrible lack of coherence. In addition to problems arising from the inherent isolation of centralized bueaucracy, there are the usual problems of corruption and inefficiency."

Mrs. Green maintained that outright thievery is rare. "Farm more prevalent," she said, referring to the U. S. Office of Education, "are such practices as bypassing regulations, ignoring uncomfortable restrictions, bestowing benefits on friends or colleagues, and all the known forms of log-rolling."

The deputy minister didn't quote a price but it's clear the Russians will rely on the old capitalist supply and demand method should the U. S. decide to buy. When reminded of the bargain the U. They may have been low, but look at Alaska, which we sold for $7 million back in 1867. That was cheap, too, but you don't hear us complaining." -- National Review.

If you were a state legislator at Jefferson City you could read for a month and even then be unable to finish and digest the contents of the bills and resolutions introduced.

It is the only way to arrive at the truth of many matters that enter into the investigation.

If after full disclosure of all evidence, President Nixon is not guilty, he should be cleared. If he is guilty of impeachable offenses, then he should have impeachment proceedings filed against him.

Up until last week, there were some avenues closed to the investivators. The action of the House was needed.

We agree with an economic service report that it is almost inconceivable, but the economic masterminds in Washington and in other world capitals have succeeded in afflicting us with two of the greatest economic problems at the same time. Inflation is accelerating, but the U. S. and the world economy seems to be also heading into a downturn. What is a businessman or consumer to do in this environment?

There can be no denying that inflation has been on the rise. Consumer prices in December, 1973, were 8.8 per cent above those a year earlier. Unfortunately, matters may get even worse before they get better. While Consumer Price Index rose from 120.8 to 138.5 last year, the Commodity Index of the Bureau of Labor statistics jumped from 108.5 to 221.7 per cent. This lays a foundation for greater price increases in the consumer level as these cost increases are eventually passed through. Dr. Herbert Neil, vice president and Economist for the Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, is predicting that price increases will average nearly 10 per cent through May of this year.

Believe it or not, by some standards the U. S. price performance in 1973 was relatively good. Consumer prices increased 30.6 per cent in Greece last year and 21.1 per cent in Portugal. In Japan they were up over 19 per cent. In Denmark and Italy, 12½ per cent, Britain, 10½ per cent, Spain, 14.2 per cent, and Switzerland, 11.9 per cent increase in prices. What we have, then, is increasing inflation on a world scale.

This should come as no great surprise, since currencies are no longer linked to any standard. They can float in any direction they want, depending on the pressures of the market. This places no fiscal discipline on governments and is the root cause of the inflation we are confronted with today. These same nations are now faced with mushrooming oil bills. Higher oil prices will boost consumer prices further in all major trading nations in the first quarter of this year. As things stand now, it looks as though most countries will finance their increased expenditures by printing more paper. In the long run, this paper becomes the fuel for more inflation.

But prices can not continue to rise indefinitely. Over centuries of economic history, it has been proven that periods of rapidly rising prices are followed by a period of declining prices. Last year prices in the United States rose faster than personal income. With higher Social Security taxes included, the average real spendable earnings of a worker with three dependents was 3 per cent lower in December than a year earlier. While there are some exceptions, of course, the great majority of Americans have less real income to spend now than they did a year ago. Eventually, this must be reflected in declining demand for goods.

NOW WE KNOW

At last we know why Attorney General John Danforth of Missouri has been undecided about opposing Senator Tom Eagleton next year. He's been waiting to see what comes out of present investigations regarding political contributions.

It has been disclosed that Danforth received $60,000 in contributions in 1970 from a once- secret national GOP fund raising committee that was operating illegally. An official of this group has pled guilty of two counts of illegal activity.

Danforth said his campaign organization against Senator Stuart Symington requested White House fiscal assistance and received the funds. His comment was "I never knew exactly what they were doing."

The people of Missouri have been wondering this about Jack Danforth for sometime ... just what is he doing in the post he now holds?

LOOK ACROSS THE FENCE

At the Edison Electric Institute's Annual Convention in San Diego, California, a number of authorities, drawn from both government and private industry, discussed the many problems confronting the investor- owned electric industry. They appeared to fall into two main categories. On one side, the utilities face the job of providing the country with sufficient electric energy while meeting a growing host of regulatory decrees and mandates. At the same time, the industry faces the task of financing, through voluntary investment channels, countless billions of dollars worth of new plants and facilities, a substantial portion of which must be devoted to nonproductive environmental purposes.

Inescapably it seems, those dealings with one category of utility problems find it difficult to reach across the fence, mentally speaking, to take a look at the problems on the other side. Mrs. Virginia H. Knauer, special assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs, said: "Quite naturally, we look at the issues from the perspective of a consumer ..." Another speaker, an investment analyst, warned that the utilities are in no position to do anything to further weaken their financial structure and suggested that electric companies redouble "... efforts to effectively convey to your customers not only the need you have for higher rates but also your contribution to the well- being of their community."

Sooner or later the country must realize that there is no invisible fence dividing the common interest which consumers and utility companies have in providing electric energy for tomorrow's needs. In the long run, consumers must understand the problems on both sides of the fence and realize that it takes money as well as mandates to produce electric energy.

THE LOGICAL ANSWER

Some environmental enthusiasts have advocated discouraging the use of electricity by raising its price as consumption increases, contrary to the sound and time proven practice of giving the volume purchaser of any product or service a price break.

Regarding such a policy, Mr. Shearon Harris, president of Carolina Power & Light Company and immediate past chairman of the Edison Electric Institute, has said that "while there is need for higher rates sufficient to cover all costs, including those necessary to meet environmental standards, there is certainly no need for applying the concept that rates should be turned upside down ... Raising the unit price of electricity with usage, halting on a broad scale the promotion of prudent electric power applications, or rationing power would have most unwelcome effects on America's goals of improving social, economic and environmental conditions."

Environmental drumbeaters who advocate turning electric rate structures topsy- turvy demonstrate a lack of understanding of basic social economic and technological facts. Electric energy used in recycling of waste, sewage disposal and countless other ways is a major part of the answer to environmental improvement. Clean electricity energy used wisely in industry to lower pollution levels and increase efficiency is the basis of good jobs and higher living standards Modern civilization will live on increasing amounts of energy or die from lack of it. Electricity can help power the way to a better quality of life if the industry that must produce it is allowed to progress to meet the future as it always has.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

More On Nixon's Taxes

WASHINGTON -- Confidential White House documents show that President Nixon, contrary to the statements put out in his name, has taken an intense personal interest in wangling every possible tax deduction he could get away with.

He even inquired in 1969 about deducting his payments to his daughter Julie as a business expense. He wanted to count money he was contributing to her support as salary for her work as a White House tour guide. Yet the White House had already put out publicity that she was a "volunteer."

The President also wanted a tax break for using the den at his San Clemente estate for an office. He asked what tax write- offs were available, too, for permitting others to use his California and Florida houses.

He thought he should be permitted to charge off wedding gifts, funeral sprays and similar items, because he felt these were "business expenses" for a politician. Most of his entertaining, he also contended, should be deductible. "He wants to be sure," instructed aide John Ehrlichman in a confidential memo, "that his business deductions include all allowable items."

This differs with the picture the White House has tried to portray of a President too busy to bother with the details of his tax returns. Press spokesman Gerald Warren has implied Nixon was so preoccupied with the presidency that he left the preparation of his returns entirely to his lawyers.

The implication was that his lawyers were really to blame for claiming the controversial-- and probably illegal-- $576,000 tax deduction for the gift of the Nixon papers to the government.

Documents now in the hands of the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, however, prove that the President was not at all removed from the preparation of his returns. On the contrary, he pulled every possible string to increase his tax deductions.

Ehrlichman relayed the President's wishes to Edward Morgan, the White House aide who handled the President's taxes. For example, an Ehrlichman memo, dated June 16, 1972, asked Morgan:

"The President proposes to personally pay Julie for her work in the White House this summer and deduct it as a business expense. Would you please determine whether he can properly do this...."

Morgan took the problem up with the Internal Revenue Service's Deputy Chief Counsel Roger Barth who served as political impresario for Julie and Tricia Nixon during the 1968 campaign and is now the Nixon man inside the IRS.

Barth responded a month later with a memo, carefully stamped "Confidential," advising; "Legally we might justify deduction as a business expense for a salary paid to Julie as a tour guide this summer. However, for the following reasons, I MOST strongly recommend that this should not be done:

"(A) The amount involved is rather small;

"(B) This is always a factual question which could be raised on audit of whether she is necessary to the taxpayer's 'business';

"(C) In addition to federal withholding data which would get into the files at the IRS, information would have to be given to the (state) tax authorities and to the Social Security people. There are too many entities involved for this to be kept confidential;

"(D) The newspapers have made much of the fact that she has been acting as a 'volunteer.' I think the risk of exposure of a business deduction attempt is too great...."

Barth advised instead that the President should "make a gift at the end of the summer to Julie. Although it would not be deductible to him, it would be tax- free to her."

The President apparently heeded this advice, for the White House press office tells us that the President never put Julie on salary.

In another memo, Ehrlichman asked Morgan: "The President intends to use the San Clemente house for official visits, and he intends to use his den as an office for presidential activities. What write- offs are available to him?"

Barth was also approached on this question. He advised that "a deduction would be permitted for depreciation and maintenance expenses."

Ehrlichman also wanted to know about "the tax consequences of permitting others to use the Florida and California houses." Barth responded: "We would have to establish the business purpose for the President with regard to each person invited to use the homes."

On the question of deductions for wedding gifts, funeral sprays and the like, Ehrlichman noted: "The President holds the view that a public man does very little of a personal nature. Virtually all of his entertainment and activity is related to his 'business.' "

Agreed Barth: "I personally agree with the idea that much of the President's expense is related to his 'business.' As with the business use of his residence, a careful system must be established for keeping track of business expenses....

"Small gifts by the President, which are related to his 'business,' would be deductible ....Note, however, that we must give thought to distinguishing between activities and gifts related to 'being a President' and those related to running for reelection."

Richard Nixon, as we now know, took every available legal deduction and at least one $576,000 write- off whose legality is questionable.

White House Snubbed:

Hard Hats, Last of Nixon's Powerful Blocs, Desert President

WASHINGTON-- Four years ago they marched by the hundreds of thousands in serried rows across the nation's streets, warmly cheering the President and hotly pursuing and ofttimes clobbering those who insulted him. Today, they-- the country's hard hats-- are giving Richard Nixon the coldest of chills, the bluntest of snubs and the most powerful of political truths.

They have accomplished all this simply by not inviting President Nixon to address their famous massive annual legislative conference opening here April 1. This is the first time in the 18- year history of the Building and Construction Trades Dept. (AFL- CIO) national conference that a President has not been asked to share the platform.

Insiders interpret this as the signal to the President that the chiefs of 17 major construction unions, with 3.5 million members in the country's biggest industry ($138 billion annually), have withdrawn their political support and are following their own leader, America's No. 1 plumber, George Meany.

This is grim news for the White House. The hard hats, whose backing the President had hoped to tie to him by naming Pete Brennan (a painter by trade) Secretary of Labor, have been Mr. Nixon's single most powerful political base. By casting their bloc vote against him in this fashion they've "vetoed" him among the nation's most conservative working people-- the hard- hat, blue- collar class.

And to ram their point home to the White House, the construction union leaders also have rejected Vice President Jerry Ford, Brennan and "everyone else from the administration itself."

Reacting with bitter anger at this reversal of tradition, one White House source, generally more discreet than others, snorted: "They're a mighty ungrateful bunch of bastards considering they've gotten virtually everything they've asked for on some mighty sensitive sociological issues."

There's more than a snub here. Scratching the President from the 18th Annual Legislative Conference platform deprives Dick Nixon of just the kind of audience he now needs so desperately. To this mammoth parley come not just the traditional chiefs and executive boards, but some 4,000 to 5,000 business agents and other lower- echelon local union officials who don't generally make their way to the capital.

There might have been some boos. But there certainly would have been a hearty reception too. There was one last year when he spoke. It's Dick Nixon's kind of milieu-- right in the heart of Meany's establishment, in fact, the establishment of the AFL-CIO.

Instead, this year there will be an all- star Democratic party cast-- House Speaker Carl Albert, Sen. Ted Kennedy, Scoop Jackson, Pete Williams and Jack Javits (the nearest thing to a liberal Democrat one can find in the Republican party).

Construction union chiefs deny the implication of a snub. They say they're simply revamping their conference so that, in effect, it becomes a series of discussions of health and safety, their drive to legalize common situs picketing (the right to picket an entire construction project though the dispute is with only one of many contractors on the "job"), energy, manpower for new types of power plants, the Alaskan pipeline and unemployment.

However, some national union leaders see the snub as part of the AFL- CIO's resign-or- be- impeached ultimatum campaign led by Meany.

Many building trades union leaders openly endorsed Richard Nixon for President in '72. Their rejection of him now proves what few outsiders realize-- namely, there are mighty few rebels against the top national AFL- CIO leadership inside the movement. It proves the unchallengeable strength of George Meany. In this case stronger than that of the President of the U. S.

This one will hurt Dick Nixon. Privately, he's counted on "his" hard hats. He feels more comfortable with them than with any others except his family and two or three personal friends. He's never forgotten how they poured into the streets in May 1970 to back up his Vietnam-Cambodian policy during what he has talked of as "my lowest moment of the presidency."

EXPORT BANS OFFER NO SOLUTION

The idea is getting more popular to curb exports by U.S. farmers. Short sighted people-controller bureaucrats forcast $1 per loaf bread and then propose as a solution to punish the productive U.S. farmers by banning export sales of their wheat.

The long-term result of export bans would be a guarantee that farmers would produce less, not more, wheat. Farmers are not dumbbells, despite what some politicians and city-slicker bureaucrats think.

Hopes for profits now cause farmers to try to meet the new demands for wheat. Increased tillings and plantings have raised farm operating expenses and increased demand for and prices on the things the farmer uses, particularly the cubing fertilizer export sales, destroying markets we have painstakingly built up overseas in an attempt to ease our balance-of-payments problems.

There is a pattern here that requires a second thought. Short-term expediencies like this cause more problems than they cure. World peace cannot [illegible] of trade boycotts, whether on wheat, fertilizer, oil or whatever. We resent the shut-off of vital foreign oil once sold to us. We cannot expect friends and allies to feel grateful for shutting off their wheat, fertilizer or anything else we have been selling them. Let's think carefully where these ideas of curbing our people will actually lead us.

Woman injured in accident

Karan Jeanett Smith, 21, of Route One, received minor head injuries at 8:52 a.m. Sunday when the car she was driving collided with another auto at the intersection of Main Street and Malone Avenue.

She was treated at Missouri Delta Community Hospital and released.

Police said the Smith car was southbound on North Main Street when it hit a car driven by John Marvin Barnett, 81, of Route Four. Barnett's car was making a left turn onto North Main from the E. Malone Avenue, at the time of the accident.

Both drivers told police they had the green light.

Police said there were no arrests.

Firemen were called at 8:55 p.m. Saturday to the Carl Pearson home, 820 Matthews Ave., when fire destroyed a small shed located next to the alley behind the home.

The cause of the fire is not known.

At 11:30 a.m. Saturday, foremen were called to extinguish a car fire on East Gladys Street. Firemen said the fire, caused by a carburetor backfire, did minor damage.

'Bill means big savings'

JEFFERSON CITY- State Rep. F. E. "Gene" Copeland, a New Madrid Democrat, announced Thursday that the Missouri House of Representatives has passed a bill he introduced to permit pro- rata registration of commercial vehicles and trailers.

"This means big savings for many people in our area," Copeland said. "It will be especially helpful to farmers with trailers."

Atty. Gen. John Danforth ruled earlier that there could be no pro- rata registration of vehicles and that an entire year's fee would have to be paid unless it was a new vehicle.

Copeland immediately introduced legislation to correct what he termed a "gross inequity" to farmers, many of whom use the trailers only a few months a year.

"No one should have to buy a license for an entire year when a vehicle is in use for only a few months," he said.

The bill was passed by the House Thursday and has now gone to the Senate.

Copeland urged anyone interested to contact members of the State Senate for help in speeding passage of the bill, which contains an emergency clause.

Police car damaged by stolen truck

CHARLESTON-- A Charleston police car was damaged early Sunday in pursuit of an Army truck that had been stolen from the National Guard Armory.

Officer Charles Carthell began following the five- ton truck about 2 a.m. Everytime the car would approach the truck from the rear, its driver would throw the truck in reverse.

The police car was pursuing the truck down a side road about three fourths of a mile south of Charleston when the driver put the truck in reverse and jumped out. The right fender and right door of the police car were damaged, but Carthell escaped injury.

The driver of the truck escaped on foot.

Daughter knows Mom's problem is alcohol, asks her to get help

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter. If it doesn't help my mom, maybe it will help someone else.

Dear Mom: I know you have a drinking problem, but I love you too much and am too weak, or too much of a coward to tell you I know. Life hasn't been easy for you and I understand why you turned to the bottle. I wish I knew what I could do to help you, but now that I have children of my own, I am busy with my family.

We want you around as long as possible, Mom. When you go out at night by yourself, we worry. When I talk to you and then a little while later you don't remember anything you said, I am heartsick. It's happening more and more and it makes me realize the seriousness of the situation.

Get some help, Mom. Please admit you have a problem before it's too late. If you need me, I'm here. Just let me know. We all love you.-- Your Daughter

Dear Daughter: Here's your letter. And now a note to every mom who read it: If you felt the slightest twinge, the faintest shadow of a hint that maybe that letter was meant for you, please look up Alcoholics Anonymous in the phone book and attend their next meeting. A better way of life is as close as your telephone.

Dear Ann Landers: Remember that fellow who set the world's finger- snapping record and drew a crowd of over 300 people? As I recall, you didn't think that was much of an accomplishment and a lot of readers got mad at you. Well, how do you like this one? A 20- year- old Italian hair stylist in Boston edged out a 21- year- old telephone operator in a spathetti eating contest.

These two shoveled in the pasta for one solid hour and 40 minutes. The young woman washed down the boiled spaghetti (which she said she didn't care for) with red wine. Her opponent drank water. When she quit she said she wasn't really full yet but she was getting loaded on the wine.

The spaghetti- eating champ had won two other "firsts." He had eaten one pound of cheddar cheese in 4 1/2 minutes and 266 pitted prunes in 40 minutes.

What do you think about such "stellar" achievements, Ann Landers?- Hollywood Witness

Dear Wit: I'm happy to say I don't have to think about them. To each his own.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 38, divorced and going with a married man. We have been seeing each other for three years. I lost my husband because of him. We are together almost every weekend and two or three evenings during the week.

Am I crazy or is he? This man is successful in business, has a fairly attractive wife, a nice home and six good children. He says his wife is a wonderful mother (they have been married 26 years) but she is not interesting to him sexually or otherwise. He likes my company.

Why would a wife stand for her husband to be gone four or five evenings a week? He has to be telling some fantastic lies to get away with it. She MUST realize he has somebody else. Why doesn't she divorce him and give us a chance to have a decent life together? What do you see that I might have overlooked?-- Mystified Ms.

Dear Ms.: I see (1) six children, (2) a wife who would rather have half a loaf than none, and (3) a man who probably doesn't want a divorce and has never brought up the subject.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism-- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

TUESDAY

Junior Women's Club will meet with Senior Women's Club at 7:30 p.m. at First United Methodist Church.

Girl Scouts entertain Women's Civic Club

Mrs. Gene Aufdenberg presented members of Girl Scout Troop 206 in a program of various activities and projects undertaken by the troop at the March 5 meeting of the Women's Civic Club in the fellowship hall at First Christian Church.

Mrs. Aufdenberg also introduced several mothers and a grandmother of troop members as a tribute to their assistance and devotion in helping the girls in their learning experiences.

Attitudes of the troop members have been monitored and guided when necessary, Mrs. Aufdenberg stated. Service projects are requested and welcomed by the scouts and their troop leaders.

The Women's Civic Club, the troop sponsor, presented the leader a check for $135, including a campership for a Girl Scout.

A certificate of appreciation from the troop was presented to Mrs. Roy Marks, the club president.

Nineteen members and one guest attended the meeting.

The club's spring Goldsmith's bus trip to Memphis, Tenn., will be held March 20, with buses departing from the First United Methodist Church parking lot at 6:30 a.m., earlier than in the past due to lower speed limits now in effect. The ticket deadline is March 15, and reservations are to be made to either Miss Almaretta Sidwell or Mrs. Aletha Garnett.

A nomination committee was appointed, with Mrs. Aufdenberg as chairman and Mrs. Nellie Bird, Mrs. Margaret Cain and Mrs. Scott Waters assisting.

Mrs. Lillian Standley announced that housing is needed for student delegates attending the state student council convention here next weekend, and asked members to make available space known to the school authorities.

Refreshments in a St. Patrick Day theme were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Shirley Ainsworth, Mrs. Cain, Miss Sidwell and Mrs. Lea Edwards.

The April meeting will be held at the rural home of Mrs. Nellie Bird, and all members planning to attend are asked to meet at the First United Methodist Church parking lot at 12:30 p.m. April 2 to facilitate transportation.

"We didn't get a free gift when we switched to First National Bank, and we really appreciate it."

We switched to First National Bank about 3 years ago on the advice of a friend. We'd just gotten married and had a lot of financial questions.

We'd seen "free" plastic coolers, cameras, silver-plated pie servers, china and other gimmicks in the ads. But we didn't want a "free" gift. We wanted a bank that understood the money problems young couples has.

Larry and I were impressed with the personal efficient service, and having our own officer to answer all our questions.

True, the president didn't come out with a "free" ice bucket or a pie-server. But our officer at First National Bank saved us money on our auto loan, set up a security savings plan for our first child and showed us how to earn an extra $60.00 a year on our savings. That sure beats a free pie-server or even a dozen ice buckets or other gimmicks.

Hornets settle for fourth

COLUMBIA — What started out as a big week for the Advance High School basketball team ended on somewhat of a sour note Saturday afternoon at the Hearnes Multi-purpose Complex on the University of Missouri campus when the Southeast Missouri Class A state tournament entry had to settle for fourth place.

Coach Carroll Cookson's dethroned two- time state finalists failed to achieve the kind of top flight performance that had carried them through South Iron regional competition and past two tough state tournament opponents into the weekend series.

"We let a lot of people down ... including ourselves," Coach Cookson remarked. "I can't explain it ... maybe it was the pressure, or maybe we just took the finals for granted after downing Parma and Crocker, who could have won it."

The Hornets failed to show the stinging offense and buzzing defense that helped the team past such regional opponents as Ellington and Delta, who were comparable in basketball talents to the state tournament finalists.

Mistakes marred Advance's two weekend encounters and totaled 24 in Saturday's consolation game, won by Smithton, 71-63.

"I don't want to take anything away from these teams that beat us, but I honestly believe that the four teams (Crocker, Parma, Delta and Ellington) we faced could have won it," Cookson confided.

While praising his team's opponents, Cookson said: "Maybe it was our youngness ... or maybe it could be attributed to the fact that we haven't faced many teams that big."

Advance jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the third place duel but struggled the rest of the way, as poor shooting and lack of rebounding kept the Hornets down.

Smithton hustled into a 14-8 lead late in the first quarter and led 31-30 at the half after the Hornets had rallied from a 25-18 deficit in the second period to tie the score at 26-26 with 2:55 left in the half, but failed to maintain the pace and quickly fell back.

After a brief halftime break, Advance came out with its press and moved into a 41-33 lead after rolling up an 11-2 advantage in the opening minute and 31 seconds and seemed headed for victory. However, the Hornets then fell flat and scored only 22 points the remainder of the game, while the Tigers poured in 34 for the win.

The Hornets still led, 53-51, going into the fourth quarter, but a three- minute scoreless span by the Hornets doomed their hopes, as their bigger opponents ruled the backboards and took advantage of free throws to claim third place honors.

Coach Cookson used 11 players in the contest, and the scoring was led by Ron Oller's 16 points. Smithton was paced by big 6-foot- 6 Steve Templemire's 21 tallies, plus three other players who finished in double figures.

Advance hit a lowly 35.6 per cent of 73 shots from the field, while the Tigers canned 50 per cent of their 54 attempts. Rebound - wise, Smithton prevailed 35-32, with Templemire grabbing 16 of them.

Coach Cookson's young club later accepted its fourth place prize proudly and left with a lot of experience, which should help them next season when all of the present Hornets except three seniors return to seek to become the first SeMo team ever to compete in four straight state tournament finals.

Advance's plight over the weekend is demonstrated here by this Greenfield athlete, who pulls down the rebound during the Friday afternoon semifinal.

Sophomore Steve Cookson (30) displays the form of his jump shot which will haunt many of the district teams the next two seasons. Cookson is the son of Advance high school coach, Carroll Cookson.

Cards win

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Ageless Bob Gibson was to try his trusted right arm a first time today as the St. Louis Cardinals took on the Detroit Tigers in a spring training exhibition baseball game.

The trial for the 38-year-old Gibson, sidelined 55 days last summer by a knee injury, followed a strong stint Sunday by right-hander Lynn McGlothen in relief.

McGlothen, who followed lefthander John Curtis to the mound, restricted the New York Mets to one hit over four innings and helped the Cards rally to a 6-5 win.

Mets outfielder Cleon Jones poked a two-run double and first baseman John Milner followed with a home run before the Cards came back.

Ken Reitz' single tied for the Cards at 5-5 in the ninth, then non-roster first baseman doubled home the winning run.

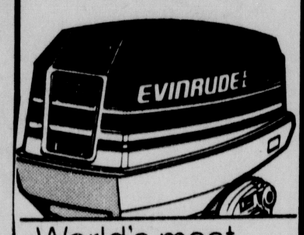

The victory squared the Cards' Grapefruit League record at 1-1. A day earlier Mets left-handers Jon Matlack, Jerry Koesman and Tug McGraw had combined to stop the Cards 4-1.

BOGOTA, Colombia — South Africa won the South American zone Davis Cup title as Frew McMillan and Bob Hewitt rallied for a 7-9, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Chile's Patricio Cornejo and Jaime Fillol.

FORD GALAXIES AND LTDS
Family Size Cars... Your Best Buy... Here's Why

ECONOMY
1. Price is right. The bigger the Ford, the bigger the discount. Family size Fords cost less per pound. You get more for your money.
2. Family size Fords are built to go more miles with less maintenance. Bigger shock absorbers, tires, brakes, batteries, etc., all insure less mechanical trouble. Mini cars just can't take the beating of rough roads and weather, the way a family size car can.
3. Family size Fords burn regular gas and give you more miles per tank than most mini cars. This is important on Sundays.

SAFETY
1. Ever see a mini car after a bad accident?
2. Family size Fords surround you with a steel frame and steel side girders. You and your family get much more protection.

PERFORMANCE
1. Passing power when needed.
2. Stopping power (bigger brakes) for emergencies.
3. Power for towing boats, ski doos, campers, etc.
4. Effortless acceleration - power in reserve.

COMFORT & CONVENIENCE
1. Family trip with no kids and no luggage may be cheap ... but it's no fun!
2. Small cars have small gas tanks - you really have to stop for gas more often than in a family size car.
3. Really, with the few miles you drive, don't you deserve a quiet, comfortable car?

The current gas shortage probably won't last for 3 years ... but isn't that how long you'll be driving that mini car your thinking about?

But a family size Ford - drive it at a reasonable speed - and have real

Fire at Chaffee

Firemen from the Illmo Fire Department look on as other firefighters continue to subdue flames in the vacant Lucky 13 Lanes bowling alley in Chaffee. The fire, which started from an explosion at about 4:20 a.m., had been mostly beaten back by rain and the combined efforts of the Chaffee, Oran and Illmo fire departments when this picture was taken. The bowling alley was destroyed while five surrounding buildings received smoke or water damage.

Prosecutor to drop California charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — District Atty. Joseph Busch of Los Angeles County agreed today to seek dismissal of California burglary and conspiracy charges that had been placed in the Ellsberg case against John D. Ehrlichman, David R. Young and G. Gordon Liddy.

The perjury charge leveled against Ehrlichman would remain.

The announcement was made jointly by Busch and special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Ehrlichman and Liddy were indicted by a federal grand jury last week on federal conspiracy charges in the case. Young was not indicted by the federal grand jury in Washington.

Busch agreed to drop the state charges as a result of the federal indictments.

"Among the reasons given for seeking to dismiss are that many of these issues involve matters of national interest and therefore would best be decided in the federal court system," the announcement said.

"The two indictments would be exposing defendants to trial in two different jurisdictions and, in fairness to those defendants charged in both jurisdictions and in the interests of justice, they should be tried in one jurisdiction," it said.

Ehrlichman, former chief domestic counselor to President Nixon, pleaded innocent Saturday to one count of conspiracy to violate the rights of Dr. Lewis Fielding, Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, one count of lying to the FBI and three counts of lying to the grand jury.

Charles W. Colson, a former White House aide, also pleaded innocent Saturday to a conspiracy count in connection with the Ellsberg case.

Four other defendants in the case, including Liddy, are to be arraigned Thursday before U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell.

Ehrlichman, Young and Liddy pleaded innocent to the California charges last September and their trial had been scheduled by Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer for April 15.

Both the federal and state cases involve the September 1971 break-in of Fielding's Beverly Hills office by burglars seeking Ellsberg's files.

"The perjury charge as to John Ehrlichman in Los Angeles County will remain," the announcement said. "It involves protection solely of a state interest."

Busch and Assistant Dist. Atty. Stephen Trott met with Jaworski for an hour and afterward announced that Busch "has agreed to seek dismissal of the charges of conspiracy and burglary as to David R. Young, John Ehrlichman and G. Gordon Liddy."

It was the second time the federal case had taken precedence over the charges in California.

Egil Krogh Jr., former assistant to Ehrlichman, had been indicted along with the others in Los Angeles. But he pleaded guilty to one federal count of violating Fielding's civil rights and was sentenced to serve six months of a 2 to 6 year term. He began serving the sentence at Allenwood, Pa., prison farm on Feb. 4.

Dismissal of the case in California will make moot a demand by Judge Ringer that President Nixon come to California to testify as a "necessary and material witness."

A judge in the District of Columbia superior court, Harold H. Greene, was to hear arguments Friday on whether to issue a subpoena to enforce Ringer's order that Nixon appear.

Natural gas curtailments will end, Ark-Mo says

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. — The natural gas curtailments imposed earlier this winter on the area's large industrial users will be lifted, "effective immediately," Frank G. Smith, president of Arkansas-Missouri Power Company, said today.

Smith said the end of industrial curtailments applies to the area in Northeast Arkansas and Southeast Missouri served by Ark-Mo and its Missouri subsidiary, Associated Natural Gas Co.

Ark-Mo imposed the curtailments after its major pipeline suppliers said they would drastically cut the company's supply of natural gas below Ark-Mo's contract entitlements.

In addition to lifting the industrial curtailments, Smith said, "We are reinstating 50 per cent of all power plant entitlements, except our own Jim Hill plant at Campbell, Mo. It will continue to operate on fuel oil."

Six area municipal power plants were taken off natural gas last September.

Smith said Ark-Mo is able to ease its curtailment policy due to a combination of "a very mild winter, conservation by consumers and pipeline curtailments that were less than we had expected."

He cautioned that the company's actions "should not be construed to mean that there is no shortage of energy."

"That," he said, "would be a poorly founded conclusion.

"We still face the possibility of sever weather in March and April," he said, "and additional cold- day curtailments during these months are a very real possibility.

"And, both of our pipeline suppliers have indicated that they will probably increase our natural gas curtailments next year. It also is difficult to imagine that next year's heating requirements will be as low as this year.

"What we're saying," Smith said, "is that we may be out of this woods this heating season, but we haven't completed the journey by any means.

"In fact, power plant customers should expect to be curtailed again by Sept. 1. And large industrial customers may well have to be curtailed again this next heating season. We will issue a statement on that sometime in August.

Smith detailed the factors that allowed Ark-Mo to ease its curtailments to area industries and power plants.

"Our pipeline suppliers had indicated that our supply of natural gas would be reduced about three million cubic feet below what we had contracts for.

"But, their most recent projections indicate that we will be cut only about 2.6 billion cubic feet. So, we can pass that additional gas on to our customers.

"As for winter weather, it was about 14 per cent warmer than last year, according to our engineers, meaning it took about 14 per cent less natural gas for heating needs.

"Then the amount of gas used for commercial and residential heating was reduced to a remarkable degree due to customers lowering thermostat settings.

"While it's not possible to be 100 per cent accurate at this early date, indications are that conservation measures have reduced heating requirements by 10 per cent."

The utility president added that "I think the public deserves a vote of thanks for taking the energy shortage seriously. They certainly have our thanks, and we want them to know it."

Father returns escapee

The youth had escaped from jail by tearing out a light fixture in the ceiling of his cell. He then managed to get to the roof of the jail by crawling through a ventilator.

He was being held in connection with a Feb. 28 break- in at Davis Pharmacy, 415 Mott St.

Rivers rise as heavy rains fall in Bootheel

Heavy rains which hit sections of central and southern Missouri Sunday also dumped rain on Southeast Missouri, although not as much as in other parts of the state.

In Sikeston 1.54 inches of rainfall were recorded for Saturday and Sunday, most of that-- 1.32 inches-- occured from 7 a.m. Sunday to 7 a.m. today.

The rain was part of a line of thunderstorms which extended into Texas and resulted in the deaths of two women whose car was swept off a bridge over the rampaging Little Gravois Creek near Gravois Mills in Morgan County.

Other areas of Southeast Missouri recorded less rainfall than Sikeston. Precipitation in Charleston measured .12 inches Saturday and 1.17 inches Sunday for a weekend total of 1.29 inches.

In New Madrid, only .87 inch of rain fell over the two-day period.

East Prairie had 1.09 inches of rain while Portageville recorded .95 inches. Sunday Dexter experienced 1.23 inches of precipitation.

Across the state the most rainfall apparently occurred at Springfield where 1.89 inches were recorded in the 24 hours ending at 7 a.m. today.

Although no roads in the Sikeston area were reported flooded today, several secondary roads in the Springfield area were closed and Missouri 23, south of Concordia was flooded during the night.

River stages on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers began to rise again following the rainfall. At New Madrid the river stage was recorded at 28.5 today and is expected to rise to a crest of 31.5 feet Saturday. Flood stage at New Madrid is 34 feet.

At Cairo the river is expected to go above the 40-foot flood stage on Wednesday to 40.6 feet. It will continue to rise to a crest of 42 feet on Saturday.

At Caruthersville, where the flood stage is 32 feet, the river was recorded at 27.2 feet. The river will rise to 29.9 feet on Thursday, but no crest is currently in the forecast.

At Cape Girardeau, where flood stage is 32 feet, the forecast calls for the river to rise from 28.4 feet recorded today to a crest of 31.0 feet Friday.

All other points along the river are forecasting increases in the river stage for the next three days.

The weather forecast calls for occassional showers or thundershowers this afternoon with showers ending early tonight. Probabilities of rain this afternoon are 80 per cent and tonight, 30 per cent. Little if any precipitation is expected Wednesday through Friday. Mild temperatures are forecast for the period.

One of Congress' top experts on federal aid to education has raised disturbing questions about the way the program is run. Rep. Edith Green (D.-Ore.), a former school teacher who has made education a key concern during her long career on Capitol Hill, sounded off in an article for the New York Times: "Programs never seem to phase out, even after the problem has been solved or after the program has shown very disappointing results. It is almost impossible to reverse an initiative. It is almost impossible to change formulas because the decision of each congressman is too often based on the very pragmatic question: 'Will my congressional district (or state) gain or lose?' Second, federal education programs suffer from a terrible lack of coherence. In addition to problems arising from the inherent isolation of centralized bueaucracy, there are the usual problems of corruption and inefficiency."

Mrs. Green maintained that outright thievery is rare. "Farm more prevalent," she said, referring to the U. S. Office of Education, "are such practices as bypassing regulations, ignoring uncomfortable restrictions, bestowing benefits on friends or colleagues, and all the known forms of log-rolling."

ONLYWAY TO GET AT TRUTH

To the credit of the members of both political parties, the House at Washington last week voted 410 to 4, to give its Judiciary Committee almost unlimited powers in its investigation on the proposal to impeach or not impeach President Nixon.

It is the only way to arrive at the truth of many matters that enter into the investigation.

If after full disclosure of all evidence, President Nixon is not guilty, he should be cleared. If he is guilty of impeachable offenses, then he should have impeachment proceedings filed against him.

Up until last week, there were some avenues closed to the investivators. The action of the House was needed.

We agree with an economic service report that it is almost inconceivable, but the economic masterminds in Washington and in other world capitals have succeeded in afflicting us with two of the greatest economic problems at the same time. Inflation is accelerating, but the U. S. and the world economy seems to be also heading into a downturn. What is a businessman or consumer to do in this environment?

There can be no denying that inflation has been on the rise. Consumer prices in December, 1973, were 8.8 per cent above those a year earlier. Unfortunately, matters may get even worse before they get better. While Consumer Price Index rose from 120.8 to 138.5 last year, the Commodity Index of the Bureau of Labor statistics jumped from 108.5 to 221.7 per cent. This lays a foundation for greater price increases in the consumer level as these cost increases are eventually passed through. Dr. Herbert Neil, vice president and Economist for the Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, is predicting that price increases will average nearly 10 per cent through May of this year.

Believe it or not, by some standards the U. S. price performance in 1973 was relatively good. Consumer prices increased 30.6 per cent in Greece last year and 21.1 per cent in Portugal. In Japan they were up over 19 per cent. In Denmark and Italy, 12½ per cent, Britain, 10½ per cent, Spain, 14.2 per cent, and Switzerland, 11.9 per cent increase in prices. What we have, then, is increasing inflation on a world scale.

This should come as no great surprise, since currencies are no longer linked to any standard. They can float in any direction they want, depending on the pressures of the market. This places no fiscal discipline on governments and is the root cause of the inflation we are confronted with today. These same nations are now faced with mushrooming oil bills. Higher oil prices will boost consumer prices further in all major trading nations in the first quarter of this year. As things stand now, it looks as though most countries will finance their increased expenditures by printing more paper. In the long run, this paper becomes the fuel for more inflation.

But prices can not continue to rise indefinitely. Over centuries of economic history, it has been proven that periods of rapidly rising prices are followed by a period of declining prices. Last year prices in the United States rose faster than personal income. With higher Social Security taxes included, the average real spendable earnings of a worker with three dependents was 3 per cent lower in December than a year earlier. While there are some exceptions, of course, the great majority of Americans have less real income to spend now than they did a year ago. Eventually, this must be reflected in declining demand for goods.

NOW WE KNOW

At last we know why Attorney General John Danforth of Missouri has been undecided about opposing Senator Tom Eagleton next year. He's been waiting to see what comes out of present investigations regarding political contributions.

It has been disclosed that Danforth received $60,000 in contributions in 1970 from a once- secret national GOP fund raising committee that was operating illegally. An official of this group has pled guilty of two counts of illegal activity.

Danforth said his campaign organization against Senator Stuart Symington requested White House fiscal assistance and received the funds. His comment was "I never knew exactly what they were doing."

The people of Missouri have been wondering this about Jack Danforth for sometime ... just what is he doing in the post he now holds?

LOOK ACROSS THE FENCE

At the Edison Electric Institute's Annual Convention in San Diego, California, a number of authorities, drawn from both government and private industry, discussed the many problems confronting the investor- owned electric industry. They appeared to fall into two main categories. On one side, the utilities face the job of providing the country with sufficient electric energy while meeting a growing host of regulatory decrees and mandates. At the same time, the industry faces the task of financing, through voluntary investment channels, countless billions of dollars worth of new plants and facilities, a substantial portion of which must be devoted to nonproductive environmental purposes.

Inescapably it seems, those dealings with one category of utility problems find it difficult to reach across the fence, mentally speaking, to take a look at the problems on the other side. Mrs. Virginia H. Knauer, special assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs, said: "Quite naturally, we look at the issues from the perspective of a consumer ..." Another speaker, an investment analyst, warned that the utilities are in no position to do anything to further weaken their financial structure and suggested that electric companies redouble "... efforts to effectively convey to your customers not only the need you have for higher rates but also your contribution to the well- being of their community."

Sooner or later the country must realize that there is no invisible fence dividing the common interest which consumers and utility companies have in providing electric energy for tomorrow's needs. In the long run, consumers must understand the problems on both sides of the fence and realize that it takes money as well as mandates to produce electric energy.

THE LOGICAL ANSWER

Some environmental enthusiasts have advocated discouraging the use of electricity by raising its price as consumption increases, contrary to the sound and time proven practice of giving the volume purchaser of any product or service a price break.

Regarding such a policy, Mr. Shearon Harris, president of Carolina Power & Light Company and immediate past chairman of the Edison Electric Institute, has said that "while there is need for higher rates sufficient to cover all costs, including those necessary to meet environmental standards, there is certainly no need for applying the concept that rates should be turned upside down ... Raising the unit price of electricity with usage, halting on a broad scale the promotion of prudent electric power applications, or rationing power would have most unwelcome effects on America's goals of improving social, economic and environmental conditions."

Environmental drumbeaters who advocate turning electric rate structures topsy- turvy demonstrate a lack of understanding of basic social economic and technological facts. Electric energy used in recycling of waste, sewage disposal and countless other ways is a major part of the answer to environmental improvement. Clean electricity energy used wisely in industry to lower pollution levels and increase efficiency is the basis of good jobs and higher living standards Modern civilization will live on increasing amounts of energy or die from lack of it. Electricity can help power the way to a better quality of life if the industry that must produce it is allowed to progress to meet the future as it always has.

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
More On Nixon's Taxes

WASHINGTON -- Confidential White House documents show that President Nixon, contrary to the statements put out in his name, has taken an intense personal interest in wangling every possible tax deduction he could get away with.

He even inquired in 1969 about deducting his payments to his daughter Julie as a business expense. He wanted to count money he was contributing to her support as salary for her work as a White House tour guide. Yet the White House had already put out publicity that she was a "volunteer."

The President also wanted a tax break for using the den at his San Clemente estate for an office. He asked what tax write- offs were available, too, for permitting others to use his California and Florida houses.

He thought he should be permitted to charge off wedding gifts, funeral sprays and similar items, because he felt these were "business expenses" for a politician. Most of his entertaining, he also contended, should be deductible. "He wants to be sure," instructed aide John Ehrlichman in a confidential memo, "that his business deductions include all allowable items."

This differs with the picture the White House has tried to portray of a President too busy to bother with the details of his tax returns. Press spokesman Gerald Warren has implied Nixon was so preoccupied with the presidency that he left the preparation of his returns entirely to his lawyers.

The implication was that his lawyers were really to blame for claiming the controversial-- and probably illegal-- $576,000 tax deduction for the gift of the Nixon papers to the government.

Documents now in the hands of the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, however, prove that the President was not at all removed from the preparation of his returns. On the contrary, he pulled every possible string to increase his tax deductions.

Ehrlichman relayed the President's wishes to Edward Morgan, the White House aide who handled the President's taxes. For example, an Ehrlichman memo, dated June 16, 1972, asked Morgan:

"The President proposes to personally pay Julie for her work in the White House this summer and deduct it as a business expense. Would you please determine whether he can properly do this...."

Morgan took the problem up with the Internal Revenue Service's Deputy Chief Counsel Roger Barth who served as political impresario for Julie and Tricia Nixon during the 1968 campaign and is now the Nixon man inside the IRS.

Barth responded a month later with a memo, carefully stamped "Confidential," advising; "Legally we might justify deduction as a business expense for a salary paid to Julie as a tour guide this summer. However, for the following reasons, I MOST strongly recommend that this should not be done:

"(A) The amount involved is rather small;

"(B) This is always a factual question which could be raised on audit of whether she is necessary to the taxpayer's 'business';

"(C) In addition to federal withholding data which would get into the files at the IRS, information would have to be given to the (state) tax authorities and to the Social Security people. There are too many entities involved for this to be kept confidential;

"(D) The newspapers have made much of the fact that she has been acting as a 'volunteer.' I think the risk of exposure of a business deduction attempt is too great...."

Barth advised instead that the President should "make a gift at the end of the summer to Julie. Although it would not be deductible to him, it would be tax- free to her."

The President apparently heeded this advice, for the White House press office tells us that the President never put Julie on salary.

In another memo, Ehrlichman asked Morgan: "The President intends to use the San Clemente house for official visits, and he intends to use his den as an office for presidential activities. What write- offs are available to him?"

Barth was also approached on this question. He advised that "a deduction would be permitted for depreciation and maintenance expenses."

Ehrlichman also wanted to know about "the tax consequences of permitting others to use the Florida and California houses." Barth responded: "We would have to establish the business purpose for the President with regard to each person invited to use the homes."

On the question of deductions for wedding gifts, funeral sprays and the like, Ehrlichman noted: "The President holds the view that a public man does very little of a personal nature. Virtually all of his entertainment and activity is related to his 'business.' "

Agreed Barth: "I personally agree with the idea that much of the President's expense is related to his 'business.' As with the business use of his residence, a careful system must be established for keeping track of business expenses....

"Small gifts by the President, which are related to his 'business,' would be deductible ....Note, however, that we must give thought to distinguishing between activities and gifts related to 'being a President' and those related to running for reelection."

Richard Nixon, as we now know, took every available legal deduction and at least one $576,000 write- off whose legality is questionable.

White House Snubbed:
Hard Hats, Last of Nixon's Powerful Blocs, Desert President

WASHINGTON-- Four years ago they marched by the hundreds of thousands in serried rows across the nation's streets, warmly cheering the President and hotly pursuing and ofttimes clobbering those who insulted him. Today, they-- the country's hard hats-- are giving Richard Nixon the coldest of chills, the bluntest of snubs and the most powerful of political truths.

They have accomplished all this simply by not inviting President Nixon to address their famous massive annual legislative conference opening here April 1. This is the first time in the 18- year history of the Building and Construction Trades Dept. (AFL- CIO) national conference that a President has not been asked to share the platform.

Insiders interpret this as the signal to the President that the chiefs of 17 major construction unions, with 3.5 million members in the country's biggest industry ($138 billion annually), have withdrawn their political support and are following their own leader, America's No. 1 plumber, George Meany.

This is grim news for the White House. The hard hats, whose backing the President had hoped to tie to him by naming Pete Brennan (a painter by trade) Secretary of Labor, have been Mr. Nixon's single most powerful political base. By casting their bloc vote against him in this fashion they've "vetoed" him among the nation's most conservative working people-- the hard- hat, blue- collar class.

And to ram their point home to the White House, the construction union leaders also have rejected Vice President Jerry Ford, Brennan and "everyone else from the administration itself."

Reacting with bitter anger at this reversal of tradition, one White House source, generally more discreet than others, snorted: "They're a mighty ungrateful bunch of bastards considering they've gotten virtually everything they've asked for on some mighty sensitive sociological issues."

There's more than a snub here. Scratching the President from the 18th Annual Legislative Conference platform deprives Dick Nixon of just the kind of audience he now needs so desperately. To this mammoth parley come not just the traditional chiefs and executive boards, but some 4,000 to 5,000 business agents and other lower- echelon local union officials who don't generally make their way to the capital.

There might have been some boos. But there certainly would have been a hearty reception too. There was one last year when he spoke. It's Dick Nixon's kind of milieu-- right in the heart of Meany's establishment, in fact, the establishment of the AFL-CIO.

Instead, this year there will be an all- star Democratic party cast-- House Speaker Carl Albert, Sen. Ted Kennedy, Scoop Jackson, Pete Williams and Jack Javits (the nearest thing to a liberal Democrat one can find in the Republican party).

Construction union chiefs deny the implication of a snub. They say they're simply revamping their conference so that, in effect, it becomes a series of discussions of health and safety, their drive to legalize common situs picketing (the right to picket an entire construction project though the dispute is with only one of many contractors on the "job"), energy, manpower for new types of power plants, the Alaskan pipeline and unemployment.

However, some national union leaders see the snub as part of the AFL- CIO's resign- or- be- impeached ultimatum campaign led by Meany.

Many building trades union leaders openly endorsed Richard Nixon for President in '72. Their rejection of him now proves what few outsiders realize-- namely, there are mighty few rebels against the top national AFL- CIO leadership inside the movement. It proves the unchallengeable strength of George Meany. In this case stronger than that of the President of the U. S.

This one will hurt Dick Nixon. Privately, he's counted on "his" hard hats. He feels more comfortable with them than with any others except his family and two or three personal friends. He's never forgotten how they poured into the streets in May 1970 to back up his Vietnam-Cambodian policy during what he has talked of as "my lowest moment of the presidency."

Dick Nixon now is left with a small but strong home guard-- the Seafarers president Paul Hall and the Teamsters chief Frank Fitzsimmons. The others who once crowded around his desk to get into the news photos are summer soldiers.

EXPORT BANS OFFER NO SOLUTION

The idea is getting more popular to curb exports by U.S. farmers. Short sighted people-controller bureaucrats forcast $1 per loaf bread and then propose as a solution to punish the productive U.S. farmers by banning export sales of their wheat.

The long-term result of export bans would be [illegible] guarantee that farmers would produce less, not more, wheat. Farmers are not dumbbells, despite what some politicians and city-slicker bureaucrats think.

Hopes for profits now cause farmers to try to meet the new demands for wheat. Increased tillings and plantings have raised farm operating expenses and increased demand for and prices on the things the farmer uses, particularly the cubing fertilizer export sales, destroying markets we have painstakingly built up overseas in an attempt to ease our balance-of-payments problems.

There is a pattern here that requires a second thought. Short-term expediencies like this cause more problems than they cure. World peace cannot [illegible] of trade boycotts, whether on wheat, fertilizer, oil or whatever. We resent the shut-off of vital foreign oil once sold to us. We cannot expect friends and allies to feel grateful for shutting off their wheat, fertilizer or anything else we have been selling them. Let's think carefully where these ideas of curbing our people will actually lead us.

Woman injured in accident

Karan Jeanett Smith, 21, of Route One, received minor head injuries at 8:52 a.m. Sunday when the car she was driving collided with another auto at the intersection of Main Street and Malone Avenue.

She was treated at Missouri Delta Community Hospital and released.

Police said the Smith car was southbound on North Main Street when it hit a car driven by John Marvin Barnett, 81, of Route Four. Barnett's car was making a left turn onto North Main from the E. Malone Avenue, at the time of the accident.

Both drivers told police they had the green light.

Police said there were no arrests.

Shed destroyed by fire

Firemen were called at 8:55 p.m. Saturday to the Carl Pearson home, 820 Matthews Ave., when fire destroyed a small shed located next to the alley behind the home.

The cause of the fire is not known.

At 11:30 a.m. Saturday, foremen were called to extinguish a car fire on East Gladys Street. Firemen said the fire, caused by a carburetor backfire, did minor damage.

'Bill means big savings'

JEFFERSON CITY– State Rep. F. E. "Gene" Copeland, a New Madrid Democrat, announced Thursday that the Missouri House of Representatives has passed a bill he introduced to permit pro- rata registration of commercial vehicles and trailers.

"This means big savings for many people in our area," Copeland said. "It will be especially helpful to farmers with trailers."

Atty. Gen. John Danforth ruled earlier that there could be no pro- rata registration of vehicles and that an entire year's fee would have to be paid unless it was a new vehicle.

Copeland immediately introduced legislation to correct what he termed a "gross inequity" to farmers, many of whom use the trailers only a few months a year.

"No one should have to buy a license for an entire year when a vehicle is in use for only a few months," he said.

The bill was passed by the House Thursday and has now gone to the Senate.

Copeland urged anyone interested to contact members of the State Senate for help in speeding passage of the bill, which contains an emergency clause.

Police car damaged by stolen truck

CHARLESTON-- A Charleston police car was damaged early Sunday in pursuit of an Army truck that had been stolen from the National Guard Armory.

Officer Charles Carthell began following the five- ton truck about 2 a.m. Everytime the car would approach the truck from the rear, its driver would throw the truck in reverse.

The police car was pursuing the truck down a side road about three fourths of a mile south of Charleston when the driver put the truck in reverse and jumped out. The right fender and right door of the police car were damaged, but Carthell escaped injury.

The driver of the truck escaped on foot.

Daughter knows Mom's problem is alcohol, asks her to get help

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter. If it doesn't help my mom, maybe it will help someone else.

Dear Mom: I know you have a drinking problem, but I love you too much and am too weak, or too much of a coward to tell you I know. Life hasn't been easy for you and I understand why you turned to the bottle. I wish I knew what I could do to help you, but now that I have children of my own, I am busy with my family.

We want you around as long as possible, Mom. When you go out at night by yourself, we worry. When I talk to you and then a little while later you don't remember anything you said, I am heartsick. It's happening more and more and it makes me realize the seriousness of the situation.

Get some help, Mom. Please admit you have a problem before it's too late. If you need me, I'm here. Just let me know. We all love you.-- Your Daughter

Dear Daughter: Here's your letter. And now a note to every mom who read it: If you felt the slightest twinge, the faintest shadow of a hint that maybe that letter was meant for you, please look up Alcoholics Anonymous in the phone book and attend their next meeting. A better way of life is as close as your telephone.

Dear Ann Landers: Remember that fellow who set the world's finger- snapping record and drew a crowd of over 300 people? As I recall, you didn't think that was much of an accomplishment and a lot of readers got mad at you. Well, how do you like this one? A 20- year- old Italian hair stylist in Boston edged out a 21- year- old telephone operator in a spathetti eating contest.

These two shoveled in the pasta for one solid hour and 40 minutes. The young woman washed down the boiled spaghetti (which she said she didn't care for) with red wine. Her opponent drank water. When she quit she said she wasn't really full yet but she was getting loaded on the wine.

The spaghetti- eating champ had won two other "firsts." He had eaten one pound of cheddar cheese in 4 1/2 minutes and 266 pitted prunes in 40 minutes.

What do you think about such "stellar" achievements, Ann Landers?- Hollywood Witness

Dear Wit: I'm happy to say I don't have to think about them. To each his own.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 38, divorced and going with a married man. We have been seeing each other for three years. I lost my husband because of him. We are together almost every weekend and two or three evenings during the week.

Am I crazy or is he? This man is successful in business, has a fairly attractive wife, a nice home and six good children. He says his wife is a wonderful mother (they have been married 26 years) but she is not interesting to him sexually or otherwise. He likes my company.

Why would a wife stand for her husband to be gone four or five evenings a week? He has to be telling some fantastic lies to get away with it. She MUST realize he has somebody else. Why doesn't she divorce him and give us a chance to have a decent life together? What do you see that I might have overlooked?-- Mystified Ms.

Dear Ms.: I see (1) six children, (2) a wife who would rather have half a loaf than none, and (3) a man who probably doesn't want a divorce and has never brought up the subject.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism-- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Girl Scouts entertain Women's Civic Club

Mrs. Gene Aufdenberg presented members of Girl Scout Troop 206 in a program of various activities and projects undertaken by the troop at the March 5 meeting of the Women's Civic Club in the fellowship hall at First Christian Church.

Mrs. Aufdenberg also introduced several mothers and a grandmother of troop members as a tribute to their assistance and devotion in helping the girls in their learning experiences.

Attitudes of the troop members have been monitored and guided when necessary, Mrs. Aufdenberg stated. Service projects are requested and welcomed by the scouts and their troop leaders.

The Women's Civic Club, the troop sponsor, presented the leader a check for $135, including a campership for a Girl Scout.

Nineteen members and one guest attended the meeting.

The club's spring Goldsmith's bus trip to Memphis, Tenn., will be held March 20, with buses departing from the First United Methodist Church parking lot at 6:30 a.m., earlier than in the past due to lower speed limits now in effect. A nomination committee was appointed, with Mrs. Aufdenberg as chairman and Mrs. Nellie Bird, Mrs. Margaret Cain and Mrs. Scott Waters assisting.

Mrs. Lillian Standley announced that housing is needed for student delegates attending the state student council convention here next weekend, and asked members to make available space known to the school authorities.

Refreshments in a St. Patrick Day theme were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Shirley Ainsworth, Mrs. Cain, Miss Sidwell and Mrs. Lea Edwards.

The April meeting will be held at the rural home of Mrs. Nellie Bird, and all members planning to attend are asked to meet at the First United Methodist Church parking lot at 12:30 p.m. April 2 to facilitate transportation.

"We didn't get a free gift when we switched to First National Bank, and we really appreciate it."

We switched to First National Bank about 3 years ago on the advice of a friend. We'd just gotten married and had a lot of financial questions.

We'd seen "free" plastic coolers, cameras, silver-plated pie servers, china and other gimmicks in the ads. But we didn't want a "free" gift. We wanted a bank that understood the money problems young couples has.

Larry and I were impressed with the personal efficient service, and having our own officer to answer all our questions.

True, the president didn't come out with a "free" ice bucket or a pie-server. But our officer at First National Bank saved us money on our auto loan, set up a security savings plan for our first child and showed us how to earn an extra $60.00 a year on our savings. That sure beats a free pie-server or even a dozen ice buckets or other gimmicks.

Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of one and one- half inch hotmix asphaitic pavement on six inch soil cement base with concrete curb and gutter on and along Adams Street between Jaycee and Kiwanis Street in the city of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the council of the city of Sikeston, state of Missouri, as follows: section 1: that the council of the city of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the city of Sikeston. section 2: that the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. section 3: that the estimated cost of the improvement is $6.90 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. section 4: that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the state of Missouri and the ordinances of the city of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the city council the general revenue fund of the city of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. section 5: that any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the state of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the industrial commission of Missouri. section 6: that the city clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the city of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. # Hornets settle for fourth

COLUMBIA — What started out as a big week for the Advance High School basketball team ended on somewhat of a sour note Saturday afternoon at the Hearnes Multi-purpose Complex on the University of Missouri campus when the Southeast Missouri Class A state tournament entry had to settle for fourth place.

Coach Carroll Cookson's dethroned two- time state finalists failed to achieve the kind of top flight performance that had carried them through South Iron regional competition and past two tough state tournament opponents into the weekend series.

"We let a lot of people down ... including ourselves," Coach Cookson remarked. "I can't explain it ... maybe it was the pressure, or maybe we just took the finals for granted after downing Parma and Crocker, who could have won it."

The Hornets failed to show the stinging offense and buzzing defense that helped the team past such regional opponents as Ellington and Delta, who were comparable in basketball talents to the state tournament finalists.

Mistakes marred Advance's two weekend encounters and totaled 24 in Saturday's consolation game, won by Smithton, 71-63.

"I don't want to take anything away from these teams that beat us, but I honestly believe that the four teams (Crocker, Parma, Delta and Ellington) we faced could have won it," Cookson confided.

While praising his team's opponents, Cookson said: "Maybe it was our youngness ... or maybe it could be attributed to the fact that we haven't faced many teams that big."

Advance jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the third place duel but struggled the rest of the way, as poor shooting and lack of rebounding kept the Hornets down.

Smithton hustled into a 14-8 lead late in the first quarter and led 31-30 at the half after the Hornets had rallied from a 25-18 deficit in the second period to tie the score at 26-26 with 2:55 left in the half, but failed to maintain the pace and quickly fell back.

After a brief halftime break, Advance came out with its press and moved into a 41-33 lead after rolling up an 11-2 advantage in the opening minute and 31 seconds and seemed headed for victory. However, the Hornets then fell flat and scored only 22 points the remainder of the game, while the Tigers poured in 34 for the win.

The Hornets still led, 53-51, going into the fourth quarter, but a three- minute scoreless span by the Hornets doomed their hopes, as their bigger opponents ruled the backboards and took advantage of free throws to claim third place honors.

Coach Cookson used 11 players in the contest, and the scoring was led by Ron Oller's 16 points. Smithton was paced by big 6-foot- 6 Steve Templemire's 21 tallies, plus three other players who finished in double figures.

Advance hit a lowly 35.6 per cent of 73 shots from the field, while the Tigers canned 50 per cent of their 54 attempts. Rebound - wise, Smithton prevailed 35-32, with Templemire grabbing 16 of them.

Coach Cookson's young club later accepted its fourth place prize proudly and left with a lot of experience, which should help them next season when all of the present Hornets except three seniors return to seek to become the first SeMo team ever to compete in four straight state tournament finals.

Cards win

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Ageless Bob Gibson was to try his trusted right arm a first time today as the St. Louis Cardinals took on the Detroit Tigers in a spring training exhibition baseball game.

The trial for the 38-year-old Gibson, sidelined 55 days last summer by a knee injury, followed a strong stint Sunday by right-hander Lynn McGlothen in relief.

McGlothen, who followed lefthander John Curtis to the mound, restricted the New York Mets to one hit over four innings and helped the Cards rally to a 6-5 win.

Mets outfielder Cleon Jones poked a two-run double and first baseman John Milner followed with a home run before the Cards came back.

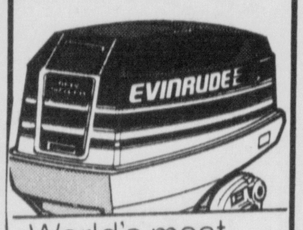

Ken Reitz' single tied for the Cards at 5-5 in the ninth, then non-roster first baseman doubled home the winning run.

The victory squared the Cards' Grapefruit League record at 1-1. A day earlier Mets left-handers Jon Matlack, Jerry Koesman and Tug McGraw had combined to stop the Cards 4-1.

TENNIS

BOGOTA, Colombia — South Africa won the South American zone Davis Cup title as Frew McMillan and Bob Hewitt rallied for a 7-9, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Chile's Patricio Cornejo and Jaime Fillol.

FORD GALAXIES AND LTDS

Family Size Cars... Your Best Buy... Here's Why

ECONOMY

1. Price is right. The bigger the Ford, the bigger the discount. Family size Fords cost less per pound. You get more for your money.
2. Family size Fords are built to go more miles with less maintenance. Bigger shock absorbers, tires, brakes, batteries, etc., all insure less mechanical trouble. Mini cars just can't take the beating of rough roads and weather, the way a family size car can.
3. Family size Fords burn regular gas and give you more miles per tank than most mini cars. This is important on Sundays.

SAFETY

1. Ever see a mini car after a bad accident?
2. Family size Fords surround you with a steel frame and steel side girders. You and your family get much more protection.

PERFORMANCE

1. Passing power when needed.
2. Stopping power (bigger brakes) for emergencies.
3. Power for towing boats, ski doos, campers, etc.
4. Effortless acceleration - power in reserve.

COMFORT & CONVENIENCE

1. Family trip with no kids and no luggage may be cheap ... but it's no fun!
2. Small cars have small gas tanks - you really have to stop for gas more often than in a family size car.
3. Really, with the few miles you drive, don't you deserve a quiet, comfortable car?

The current gas shortage probably won't last for 3 years ... but isn't that how long you'll be driving that mini car your thinking about?

But a family size Ford - drive it at a reasonable speed - and have real
